POLICE VIOLENCE AND ARRESTS

Following the Karabakh trilateral statement on 10 November 2020, thousands of people took to the Armenian streets, and hundreds stormed the Parliament building in Yerevan. Numerous protests and marches took place worldwide, organised by the 17-party opposition coalition. Protests continued until May 2021, with demonstrations in Yerevan and other cities demanding the resignation of Prime Minister Nikol Pashinyan.

More than 580 incidents of detention of demonstrators by the Armenian police were recorded from November 2020 to May 2021.

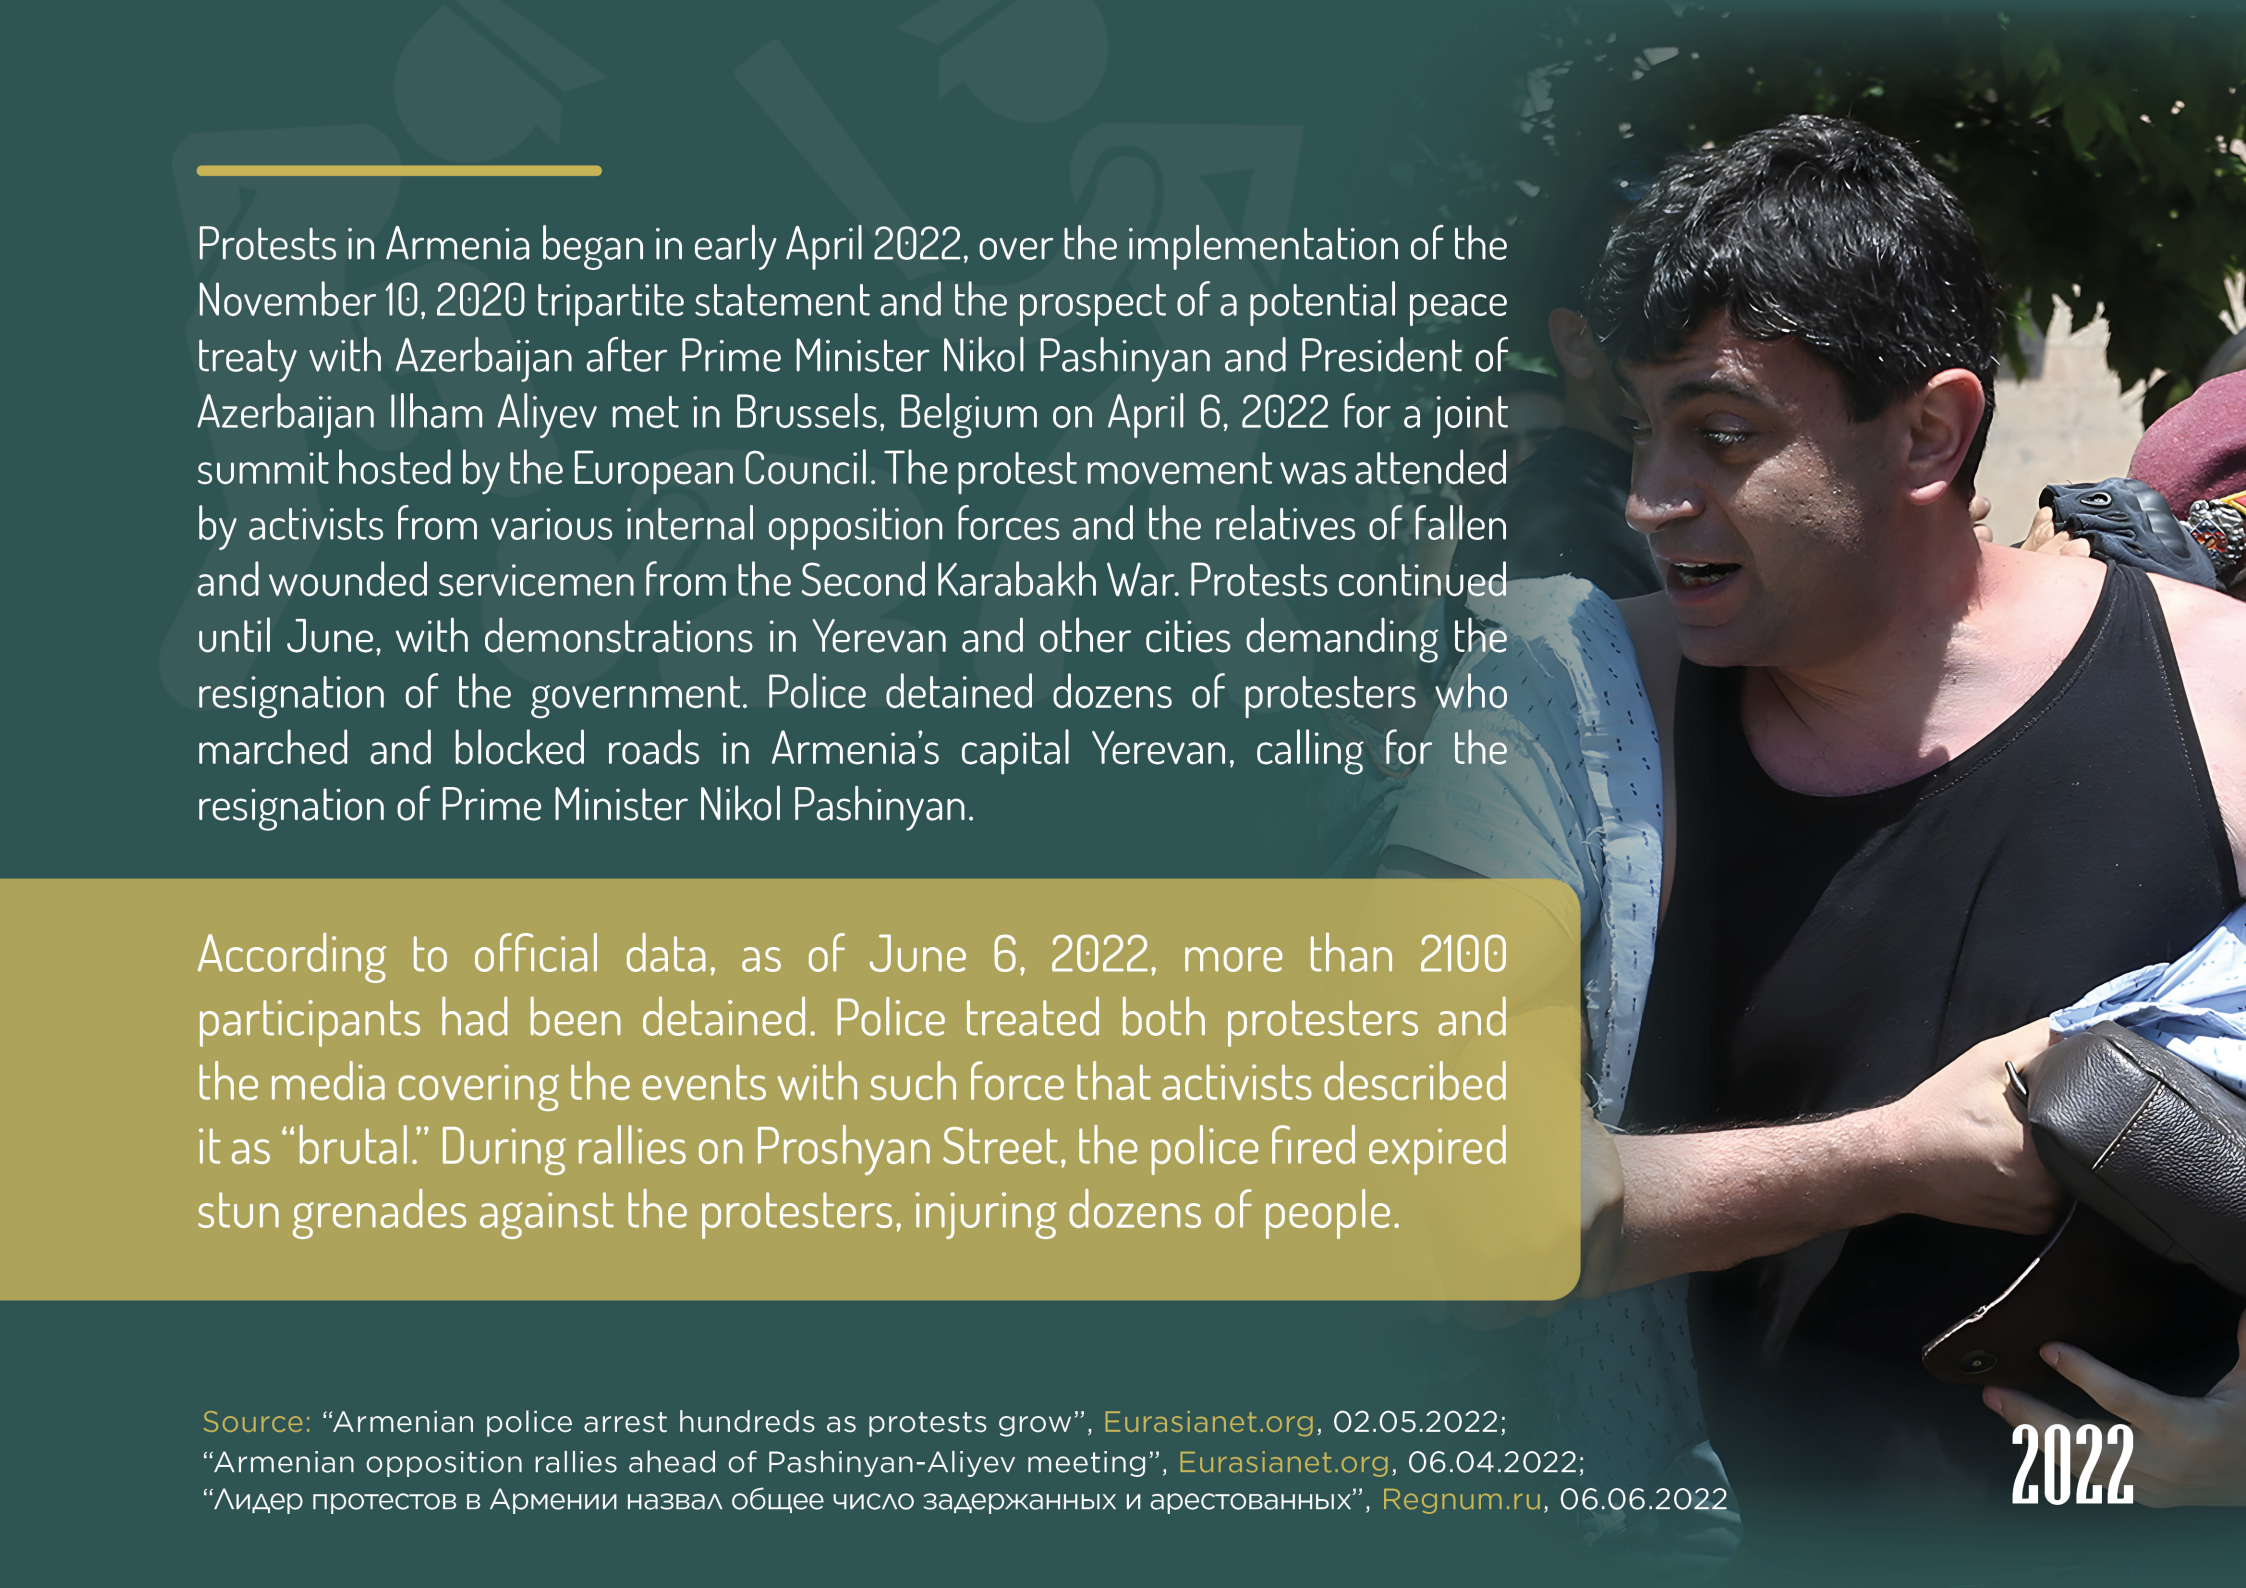

Police used force in an effort to overpower the protestors. Demonstrators and media representatives were subjected to physical attacks and insults. Garnik Petrosian (b.1993), one of the protesters who entered the Parliament building, was found dead under a bridge on November 13, 2020, an hour following his interrogation.

2020-2021

Protests in Armenia began in early April 2022, over the implementation of the November 10, 2020 tripartite statement and the prospect of a potential peace treaty with Azerbaijan after Prime Minister Nikol Pashinyan and President of Azerbaijan Ilham Aliyev met in Brussels, Belgium on April 6, 2022 for a joint summit hosted by the European Council. The protest movement was attended by activists from various internal opposition forces and the relatives of fallen and wounded servicemen from the Second Karabakh War. Protests continued until June, with demonstrations in Yerevan and other cities demanding the resignation of the government. Police detained dozens of protesters who marched and blocked roads in Armenia's capital Yerevan, calling for the resignation of Prime Minister Nikol Pashinyan.

According to official data, as of June 6, 2022, more than 2100 participants had been detained. Police treated both protesters and the media covering the events with such force that activists described it as “brutal.” During rallies on Proshyan Street, the police fired expired stun grenades against the protesters, injuring dozens of people.

BRUTALITY DURING THE RALLY

From May 1, 2022, thousands of demonstrators, demanding the resignation of Armenian Prime Minister Nikol Pashinyan, took to the streets of Yerevan, staging acts of civil disobedience, marching, holding sit-ins, and attempting to block major thoroughfares in the capital's downtown. On May 2, police in Yerevan detained at least 244 demonstrators, many on charges of refusing to obey official orders. By May 3, at least 70 demonstrators were detained, according to a police spokesman.

3RD
PRESIDENT OF ARMENIA

Serzh Sargsyan's property remains impounded. The former president resigned in 2018 under the pressure of mass protests and was accused of organising embezzlement of about 500 million drams. Back in 2019, he was charged on grounds of claim 1, part 3, art. 38-179 of the Criminal Code of the Republic of Armenia, as an act dangerous to society. Serzh Sargsyan's lawyers continue to insist that this case is a political order. Sargsyan himself called the case "absurd" and "fabricated."

LEVON SARGSYAN

In July 2018, Levon Sargsyan, his daughter and his son were declared wanted. They were charged with concealing property and assets that are subject to declaration.

In September 2019, a court issued an arrest warrant for Former President Serzh Sargsyan's brother Lyova Sargsyan. Criminal charges are pressed against Levon (Lyova) Sargsyan in the investigation of the development and implementation of the North-South Road Corridor project. According to the investigation, Lyova Sargsyan has interfered in the process of selecting a sub-contractor for the project. He was serving as ambassador-at-large at the foreign ministry at that time. He is accused of demanding 50% of expected profits from a company involved and laundered the money. Lyova Sargsyan is currently wanted. Two others – executives of a sub-contractor company and accomplices of Sargsyan in the scheme are also wanted on similar charges. Lyova Sargsyan is indicted on charges of money laundering and bribery. There is still another outstanding arrest warrant for him since 2018 on charges of illicit enrichment and false asset declaration. He is believed to be outside Armenia.

ALEXANDER SARGSYAN

After the 2018 change of government in Armenia, law enforcement focused their attention on Alexander Sargsyan and his son Hayk. In June 2018, he was charged with illegal arms possession, although he was released a few hours later. On July 11, a Yerevan court decided to detain Hayk Sargsyan. He was released on 50 million AMD bail in September. Hayk still faces charges of illegal arms possession and attempted murder. In July 2018, the property of Aleksander Sargsyan was seized, following the decision of the investigative department of the National Security Service of Armenia. He was required to return US$30 million to the state coffers. By February 2019, Alexander Sargsyan had returned US$19.6 million to the state coffers.

COURT OF ARMENIA

HRAYR
TOVMASYAN

On October 4, 2019, the Armenian Parliament adopted a resolution requesting the Constitutional Court to oust Hrayr Tovmasyan, President of the Constitutional Court of Armenia. However, the Constitutional Court made a decision to reject the motion proposed by the Parliament. On February 6, 2020, a law on amending the Constitution to dismiss him from office was passed by a majority of the parliamentary ruling party.

In early 2020, a constitutional amendment was made by the Pashinyan government to legally remove Hrayr Tovmasyan, widely regarded as the last remaining high-ranking official from the former government, from his position as Chair of the Constitutional Court. First, a referendum was scheduled, and propaganda began to favour the ruling party. However, due to the COVID-19 pandemic, it was not possible to continue this. Instead, following the voting in the Parliament, the bill on the constitutional amendment was adopted. According to the constitutional amendment that entered into force on June 26, the composition of the Constitutional Court was renewed, and Hrayr Tovmasyan was dismissed from the position of the court chairman and became an ordinary member. On September 7, 2022, Hrayr Tovmasyan, the judge of the Constitutional Court, his wife Lamara Khudaverdyan, daughters Gohar and Meri Tovmasyan, and two more related persons—Sona Khudaverdyan and Rubik Ghazaryan—have been summoned to the Department for Confiscation of Property of Illicit Origin of the Prosecutor General's Office.

Forrights.am stated that Georgi Kutoyan, former head of Armenia's NSS, who was Sargsyan's third advisor, was assassinated. This follows 49-year-old Gagik Poghosyan, head of Serzh Sargsyan's control service and adviser, who was killed in 2001. The second was Gevork Mheryan, a 33-year-old deputy police chief, who was killed in 2009.

On 26 December, Norayr Panosyan (Godson of Hrayr Tovmasyan, President of the Constitutional Court of Armenia), and Head of the Staff Overseeing Agency at the Ministry of Justice during Tovmasyan's tenure, was arrested and charged with abuse of power. He was accused of the same crimes as Hrayr Tovmasyan: abusing his authority to obtain land belonging to notary officials through pressure and intimidation. On 11 February, 2020, Court of Appeal ruled to release the former head of justice ministry's legality control inspection (2011-2014) Norayr Panosyan, godson of CC chairman Hrayr Tomvasyan.

He was previously arrested on October 1, 2019, but subsequently, by decision of the Court of Appeal, he was released on November 6, 2019.

Judge Samvel Uzunyan was placed on the wanted list, after his departure from Armenia became known. Earlier, the Supreme Judicial Council of the Republic of Armenia granted a petition for his criminal prosecution and imprisonment. For its part, the court granted a motion to choose preventive measures in the form of an arrest. A criminal case was opened regarding the fact of Judge Samvel Uzunyan crossing the state border. The media connected the criminal prosecution of Uzunyan, who was also a judge in the case of the terrorist act in parliament on October 27, 1999, with a recent NSS report on the detection of bribery cases during 2007-09 involving senior officials, whose names remain undisclosed.

ROBERT KOCHARYAN

On July 26, 2018, shortly after Nikol Pashinyan ascended to power in Armenia, Robert Kocharyan, the Second President of Armenia, was charged in connection with the events that took place on March 1–2, 2008 in Yerevan. This charge was brought regarding the overthrow of the constitutional order by alleged collaboration with other persons. The ex-president spent more than 500 days under arrest. In June 2020, he was released on bail and, in March 2021, the Constitutional Court of Armenia found Article 300.1 of the Criminal Code of Armenia unconstitutional, under which Kocharyan had been accused of overthrowing the state system. However, the criminal prosecutions on bribery charges continued.

Artur Sargsyan, Former Head of the Sisian community of the Republic of Armenia, was arrested on July 16, 2021, after participating in parliamentary elections on June 20. According to the investigating authority, Sargsyan was accused of abuse of official capacity since beginning his tenure on October 7, 2016. Sargsyan did not admit his guilt and considered his detention to be political persecution. He was released on October 14 on bail of 20 million drams and began to participate in the work of the National Assembly of Armenia. However, on November 15, the Criminal Court of Appeal in Yerevan arrested him again. According to Sargsyan's attorney Emin Khachatryan, the Court's decision had been made to hold an emergency meeting, which meant that the defence did not have the opportunity to express its point of view. The attorney considered Judge Armen Danielyan to have violated all the principles and norms of criminal law. On December 10, under the decision of the Constitutional Court, Artur Sargsyan was released.

Gevork Kostanyan was accused of forging documents in relation to the events of March 1, 2008 and an arrest warrant was issued.

But on April 16, 2022, the Constitutional Court of Armenia decided to terminate the proceedings. In July 2022, the Prosecutor General's Office of Armenia summoned Kostanyan and his family members for questioning in the case of illegally acquired property.

On January 10, 2023, the Prosecutor General's Office of Armenia appealed to the Anti-Corruption Court with a demand to confiscate at least three units of real estate from the former prosecutor Gevorg Kostanyan and those associated with him. The Department for Confiscation of Property of Illicit Origin, in particular, demanded to take away one apartment in Yerevan, and two mansions - in the communities of Tsakhkadzor and Jrvezh of Kotayk region. If the confiscation is not possible, then the department proposes to recover the value of the property (at the average market price), which is 363.6 million drams ($909,000).

On February 21, 2023, the General Prosecutor's Office of Armenia presented some details of the criminal case and the detention of Major General Grigory Khachaturov, the former commander of the 3rd Army Corps of the Armenian Armed Forces. The Investigative Department of the Republic's National Security Service (NSS) investigated the case. The explanation of the supervisory authority noted that the actions charged against Khachaturov took place in 2006–2010 when he was the commander of one of the military units. It is about the alleged abuse of office and the legalization of large real estate holdings (money laundering). On the same day, Grigory Khachaturov was set free one day after being arrested on charges strongly denied by him. Armenia's Anti-Corruption Court refused to allow the National Security Service (NSS) to hold Grigori Khachaturov in detention pending an investigation. It should be noted that Major General Grigory Khachaturov was among dozens of high-ranking army officers who signed a statement in February 2021, demanding the resignation of the government and Prime Minister Nikol Pashinyan, following the Armenian military defeat in the 2020 Karabakh war.

On October 21, 2019, Arsen Babayan, Former Deputy Chief of Staff of the Armenian Parliament was found guilty and arrested for usurping power, in a lawsuit based on the testimony of MP Arman Babajanyan. On October 24, the Common Jurisdiction Court of Yerevan granted the prosecutor's petition to arrest Arsen Babayan for a period of two months. In December 2019, indictments against Arsen Babayan and Ara Babloyan were denied by the General Prosecutor's Office. The General Prosecutor's Office dismissed the case, citing insufficient evidence.

Suren Khachatryan has been wanted since November 19, 2019. The former governor of Syunik is charged with abuse of office, complicity in official fraud, and complicity in embezzlement or embezzlement. Detention was chosen as a preventive measure against him, and a search was announced. During the preliminary investigation, information was received that Suren Khachatryan was found in France, based on which the prosecutor's office filed a motion to extradite him.

On October 28, 2022, Armenian General Prosecutor's Office reported that France refused to extradite the former governor of Syunik Suren (Surik) Khachatryan to Armenia.

On July 13, 2022, Mourad Papazian landed in Yerevan on an Air France plane to attend a quarterly meeting of the Armenian Revolutionary Federation (ARF), of which he is a leader in France. As soon as he arrived in Armenia, the Co-president of the Coordinating Council of Armenian Organisations of France (CCAF) was arrested by the police and returned on an Air France plane to Paris on July 14 (the French national holiday). According to the Armenian government: "He was one of the persons who organised an attack against the convoy of a government delegation led by the Prime Minister near the Armenian Embassy in France on June 1, 2021."

Papazian claims on his Facebook post he didn't participate in the protest rally in Paris on June 1 and that he's visited Armenia at least four times since then. "The Prime Minister's office obviously can't provide proof of their claim as I didn't attend this rally. They are lying. I will take all legal actions to defend myself to have my right to return to Armenia restored," Papazian writes.

MASIS ABRAMYAN

On August 1, 2022, the National Security Service banned Masis Abrahamyan, Chairman of the Hay Dat (Armenian Question) Committee of the ARF Dashnaktsutyun Party in the Netherlands, together with his daughter Syune, from entering Armenia, with no explanation being provided by the border guards. The Abrahamyans believe they were not allowed to enter the country for political reasons, on direct orders of Prime Minister Nikol Pashinyan. In May 2022, during an official visit by the Prime Minister of Armenia to the Netherlands, representatives of the Dashnaktsutyun party organised a protest, during which participants shouted insults at Pashinyan.

DASHTENTS

The Hraparak newspaper reporter Anush Dashtents was attacked in the centre of Yerevan. The journalist noticed Hayk Sargsyan, National Assembly deputy, standing by the campaign headquarters of the ruling Civil Contract Party, so she approached him to ask a question. The MP snatched Dashtents's phone and drove off, stating that he would not return the device until she "came to her senses". Sargsyan soon returned the phone to her, via his associates. However, it had been unlocked and the video materials had been deleted. The Special Investigation Service refused to open a criminal case "due to the lack of evidence."

As of April 2022, at least 802 cases related to Article 137 of the Criminal Code concerning ‘severe insults’ had been opened, 48 of which were criminal cases, with six people being found guilty. By the end of 2021, eight criminal cases were taken to court under this provision. All of the eight cases sent to the court concerned Facebook posts allegedly insulting Prime Minister Pashinyan. Examples of charges included:

- February 2022: Sona Aghekyan, Co-Founder of the Yerevan Alternative Municipality Initiative, was charged with insulting the Prime Minister in a Facebook post.
- February 2022: Karine Ayvazyan was charged for a Facebook post that allegedly criticised the Prime Minister, although Ayvazyan claimed that the post did not refer to Pashinyan.
- February 2022: Marina Danielyan was charged under Article 137 of the Criminal Code.
- February 2022: Narine Hayrapetyan was charged under Article 137 of the Criminal Code for a comment she left on Prime Minister Pashinyan’s Facebook page, which allegedly constituted a severe insult.
- February 2022: The Court of General Jurisdiction in Yerevan opened criminal cases against Mushegh Shushanyan under Articles 137 and 226 of the Criminal Code. Shushanyan called Pashinyan a “traitor” and called for his death in a Facebook post.
- February 2022: Manuel Manukyan was charged under Article 137 of the Criminal Code for insulting the Prime Minister on Facebook. The trial was postponed until April.

Armenian police opened a criminal case against a Facebook user for insulting Nikol Pashinyan in a comment under a photo featuring the Prime Minister. Police stated that the alleged perpetrator violated Article 137.1 of Armenia's Criminal Code: a serious insult to a person due to his public activities. The case was initiated without a complaint from the presumably injured party.

In September 2019, Hayk Harutyunyan, former Police Chief of Armenia and Robert Kocharyan's Interior Minister, was found dead in his house in Bijni, Kotayk Province. According to the preliminary version, he committed suicide. People who knew him well do not believe in the version of suicide. Hayk Harutyunyan was a key witness in the March 1 case. There is no doubt that Harutyunyan could play an important role in the final disclosure of the bloody crime. Harutyunyan's involvement in the March 1 case interfered with the main organizers of the state crime.

SULTANYAN

Armenian authorities persisted with spurious criminal incitement charges against a human rights activist, Sashik Sultanyan. The charges were in retaliation for an online interview in which Sultanyan spoke about a variety of problems he believes the local Yezidi community faces in Armenia. On October 3, 2020, Armenia's National Security Service (NSS) initiated a criminal investigation against Sultanyan, stemming from an interview he gave to the website Yezidinews.am, published in June 2020. On May 20, 2021, the NSS confiscated three computers from Sultanyan, one of which belonged to a family member, two mobile phones and several USB sticks. Although the UN and several human rights organisations called on Armenia to stop the prosecution against Sashik Sultanyan, he currently remains under investigation.

PRESSURE ON THE MEDIA AND JOURNALISTS

On March 18, in a cafe in Yerevan, Hakob Arshakyan, Minister of High-Tech Industry, used physical violence towards Paylak Fahradyan, Editor, “Irakanum.am”. The journalist, having noticed the high-ranking official, approached him and asked what he was doing in the cafe during working hours. According to media publications, the conversation became heated, and the minister hit the journalist several times, damaging his computer and phone. The Prosecutor’s Office referred the case to the Special Investigation Service to clarify the details of the incident. However, the Special Investigation Service closed the case due to a “lack of evidence.”

In October 2019, the Office of the “Hayeli” (Mirror) publication was attacked by a group of young people in Yerevan to protest against the headline of an article published by the news website. Attackers demanded an immediate stop of “Hayeli.am”, because of the fact that the news website’s editor, Anzhela Tovmasian, is the sister of Hrayr Tovmasian. The chairman of Armenia’s Constitutional Court faced growing government pressure to resign. In addition, the Investigative Committee said it had indicted four government supporters who reportedly attacked the offices of an online publication critical of the Armenian authorities.

On January 28, four Armenian opposition leaders – the Founders of the Adekvad [Adequate] party Artur Danielyan and Konstantin Ter-Nakalyan, together with Grigor Minasyan and Azat Adamyan, were detained by police.

According to Armenian bloggers, the police aimed to gain access to the personal correspondence of the detainees on their smartphones and seized their mobile devices. In addition, all these actions were allegedly carried out on Prime Minister Nikol Pashinyan's personal order.

On the same day, the Armenian police detained another opposition blogger and founder of the VETO Movement, Narek Malyan, on suspicion of the illegal possession of weapons.

Narek Malyan is one of those who oppose the activities of the Soros Foundation in Armenia. He is considered to be one of the founders of the Adekvad [Adequate] party opposing the Armenian government.

HRAPARAK NEWSPAPER AND ANDRADARDZ PRESS CLUB NGO

On June 21, 2019, NA deputy Hayk Sargsyan filed a second lawsuit in the Yerevan Court of General Jurisdiction against Andradardz Press Club NGO, seeking compensation for the damage caused to his honor and dignity through defamation and insult. The cause of the lawsuit was an article, titled “Another precious gift: a cell-phone number that costs 20 million AMD for Hayk Sargsyan” and published on Newspress.am website. On June 28, the lawsuit was accepted for proceedings. Hayk Sargsyan filed three more lawsuits with the Yerevan Court of General Jurisdiction against Hraparak Daily LLC, seeking compensation for damage caused to honor, dignity, and good reputation through defamation and insult. The reason for the MP’s lawsuit against the founder of the Hraparak newspaper, he said, were the 22 publications against him in the newspaper and their dissemination via satellite websites. According to the website, “Hayk Sargsyan is the most odious MP in the parliament”, and there are suspicions that he played a role in a scandalous criminal case. According to another article published on the website, Hayk Sargsyan “made a row” on the Yerevan-Moscow plane. In all 3 lawsuits, the MP demands that the defendant make a public apology and publish the court judgment in the same newspaper and on the website, as well as to pay a compensation. On October 9, all three cases were accepted into proceedings.
